

Notice of Disclosure Incident

On or around December 30, 2024, NVW Newco, LLC (“NVW Newco”) became aware of an incident involving the inadvertent disclosure of limited information as outlined below. We take this very seriously and are providing information about the incident and our response.

NVW Newco learned that certain group Outlook meeting invitations from an employee of First Light Wilderness were circulated to individuals associated with Deschutes Wilderness, New Vision Wilderness, and/or First Light Wilderness, and later canceled which resulted in invitee email contact information being visible to all recipients. Unfortunately, due to the scheduling process employed, invitees were included as part of the invitation and were not hidden as intended.

Based on the investigation, NVW Newco determined that this error related to potential disclosures on September 3, 2024, October 3, 2024, November 7, 2024, and/or December 30, 2024. Upon discovery, NVW Newco immediately investigated this issue and began reviewing the calendar system to identify available options to ensure that a similar incident does not happen again.

While this incident did not involve detailed individual information, the individual email addresses used for the scheduled meetings would have been visible to any recipient of the meeting invitation and subsequent cancellation. While NVW Newco has no reason to believe this information was or will be misused, it is recommended that individuals remain vigilant against incidents of phishing attempts or other fraud. Please know that NVW Newco and its associated entities are very conscientious about ensuring blind copying (BCC) is used for all group emails and apologize for any inconvenience or concern this may have caused.
